Perdue Appoints Inman as Special Superior Court Judge

RALEIGH - Gov. Bev Perdue today appointed Lucy Noble Inman as a special superior court judge. Inman takes the seat vacated by the appointment of Judge Jim Hardin as a resident superior court judge for Durham County.

"Lucy Inman has a wealth of knowledge and experience as a lawyer. I am confident she will serve the citizens as a special superior court judge well," said Perdue.

Inman is currently an attorney with Zaytoun Law Firm in Raleigh. Her practice includes business litigation, personal injury and wrongful death, professional negligence, civil rights and class action litigation. Inman previously practiced with Kuniholm Law Firm in Raleigh and was also an entertainment and business lawyer in Los Angeles, Calif. Inman started her legal career as a law clerk for former North Carolina Supreme Court Chief Justice James G. Exum, Jr.

Inman has been recognized for her legal skill by receiving the top rating from the legal directory Martindale-Hubbell, and by being included in the publication "North Carolina Super Lawyers" in 2006, 2009, and 2010. She has been active in the community, serving on boards of nonprofit organizations including Disability Rights North Carolina.

Inman received her undergraduate degree from North Carolina State University and her law degree from the University of North Carolina School of Law.
